Asian Flu Threat To Schools

A few cases of Asiatic 'flu seeded throughout the Greater Victoria area could spread quickly after schools open Sept. 4, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria - Esquimalt medical health officer, said yesterday.

She agreed with a public health officer in Washington, D.C., who said the reopening of schools next month could bring on an epidemic of Asiatic flu.

"All it would take is just a few cases seeded in throughout the area," she said. "But, there have been no reports of a case of Asiatic flu anywhere in Canada."

SCHOOL CLOSING

If a serious epidemic started, schools would have to be closed, something that hasn't been done for 40 years.

"If it ever became as bad here as in Buenos Aires, the schools would be closed," Dr. Mahaffy said.

Last big flu epidemic swept this area in 1918. Greater Victoria schools closed in October of that year and remained closed until March 1, 1919.

Asiatic flu vaccine is expected to arrive in British Columbia this fall, G. F. Amyot, deputy health minister, said yesterday.

COSTS SHARED

B.C. will receive its proportionate share on a population basis, he said. Cost would be shared by the provincial and federal governments.

Dr. Amyot said date of delivery and amount of the vaccine is not known yet.

It is being produced by Connaught Medical Research Laboratories in Toronto, also Canadian manufacturers of the Salk polio vaccine.

People in essential services such as hospitals and institutions would be the first to receive the vaccine in order to carry on necessary work.

Mouse Crews Racing Yacht!

"Nibbles," white-mouse pet of 12-year-old Ralph Fassmann, 166½ Medina Street, sails regularly as crewman in Ralph's boat at Beacon Hill Park model yacht pond. Mouse appears to enjoy his voyages. When tipped overboard — as sometimes happens — he climbs back in the ship again. Sometimes he climbs aloft; appears to manipulate sails like skilled mariner. "We had races, and every time I had the mouse on the boat, I won," Ralph says. "When I kept him on shore, on my shoulder, I lost."—(Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

Falls 2,000 Feet

Plunge from Peak Kills City Geologist

A Victoria geologist employed by the provincial mines department was killed Wednesday when he fell 2,000 feet from the lofty peak of a mountain near Invermere in the interior.

Dr. Cecil George Hewlett, 31, of 1879 Kings Road, was making a geological survey at the 10,000-foot level of Monument Peak when the accident occurred.

A companion, Arthur Jellenia of Toronto, scrambled down the rugged slopes of the mountain and made his way to the Mineral King Mine, 27 miles west of Invermere, for help. Scene was near the U.S.-Alberta border.

LOST FOOTING

RCMP, who released details of the accident last night, said Dr. Hewlett apparently lost his footing near the peak and his companion was unable to save him.

A search was organized by RCMP, miners and forestry officials and Dr. Hewlett's body was found yesterday afternoon.

He is survived by his widow, Catherine, and an infant son, John.

He had been employed by the mines department for five years after attending the University of British Columbia, Queen's University and the University of Wisconsin.

PHIL HARRIS

ARTHUR GODFREY

Famed Artists May Meet In City Today

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Bing Crosby, Phil Harris and Arthur Godfrey may do a little harmonizing in Victoria today, if they have enough time left over after sightseeing and fishing.

Crosby and Harris, with a large fishing party, spent the night aboard their chartered yacht Polaris off Sidney and are due in the Inner Harbor late this afternoon.

Godfrey is due for a brief sightseeing tour during the day, as well, but just how was not known last night. His personal plane landed at the Patricia Bay airport at 1.15 p.m. yesterday and was said to be waiting to pick up the redheaded entertainer sometime today to return him to the U.S.

Crosby, Harris and party have been fishing in B.C. waters for 10 days and came here after catching 36 tyee off Campbell River earlier in the week.

Bandleader Harris told The Daily Colonist last night that "we stopped to say hello to some friends coming down the Island and we've got a couple of people aboard who have never seen Victoria.

"We're anxious to have them see what a beautiful city it is," he said. "We want them to see the beautiful Empress Hotel, but we must be in Seattle by Saturday noon."

Godfrey's DC-3, a blue affair with a white stripe running its length and with the Godfrey name and crest emblazoned on its side, carried only its pilot. He checked into airport headquarters, then went into Victoria without leaving his name.

President Faces Open Rebellion; Aid Bill Hacked

WASHINGTON (AP)—In an open revolt against President Eisenhower's leadership, the House of Representatives Thursday night passed a foreign aid appropriation slashed $809,650,000 below what he called a rock-bottom minimum.

The chamber overrode three urgent pleas from Eisenhower in approving and sending to the Senate a $3,191,810,000 fund for the present fiscal year.

Protests by Eisenhower and his supporters that the sum is much too meagre to ensure strong defences against Communism were answered by cries that the United States has been giving away "the wealth of generations yet unborn."

SPECIAL SESSION CITED

Eisenhower has threatened to call a special session of Congress in the fall if the money finally voted proves inadequate.

Republicans tried in vain to put back some of the money denied by the House appropriations committee, but many of their own members deserted them to join a majority of Democrats who supported the committee's action.

A House appropriations subcommittee recommended the slash Wednesday night.

In appeal while the full appropriations committee was considering the report Thursday, a White House statement said Eisenhower was gravely concerned.

Eisenhower asked originally for $3,865,000,000. Congress set a ceiling of $3,367,000,000 in an authorization bill which the president signed.

Subcommittee head Representative Otto Passman (Dem. La.) said there are only 16 of the 86 countries of the world not getting American help. "At least you'll admit that that is fantastic."

McEwen Vigil Produces Plan

By COURTNEY TOWER

Ald. Elmer McEwen sat under a beach umbrella on Fountain Circle yesterday, watching the traffic go by and holding court with several people, some children and a little black dog.

After more than 13 hours of it, from just after 8 a.m. to about 5:30 p.m., he came away with a sunburn and what he said was a better knowledge of the roundabout traffic problem.

The eight other members of city council should also have accepted The Daily Colonist's challenge to watch the traffic problem at first-hand, he said.

HALF AN HOUR

"They wouldn't have had to stay there anywhere near that long, half an hour or an hour would have been enough, but they would get a better idea of the problem."

Ald. McEwen said he was convinced the right side of the circle should be cut away and Douglas made a two-way street right through. Government could become the same, traffic turning off onto Gorge Road, or switching to Douglas or Hillside, controlled by lights, he said.

SCORES STOPPED

Scores of people stopped to tell him they, too, were against the one-way street system the majority of council members are advocating, he said. Only one was for that plan, he added.

"A California lady drove around twice," he said. "She said to count her twice because if we put in a freeway we'd really have a problem."

Main congestion was from traffic from Gorge Road crossing with traffic trying to get on to Douglas Street," he said.

IT'S THE WEATHER

"The people say traffic here is about 20 per cent higher today than usual, but I think it is the nice weather, not me," Ald. McEwen said.

Police constable Bill Huckin, directing an extremely heavy flow of traffic at 5.15 p.m., agreed. "He's got a lot of cars to look at now," Const. Huckin said. "This is much heavier than it usually is."

JOCULAR JOSHINGS

As well as comments regarding his stand, Ald. McEwen received other jocular joshings from passersby.

As he sipped soft drinks under the umbrella, in the garden party-type atmosphere, 12-year-old Sharon Gryce, 2094 Bridge, came up and asked:

"Sir, that little girl over there wants to know if she can come and sit here."

LOTS OF CHAIRS

"Sure, we have lots of chairs here," said affable Elmer.

"Come on, he says it's all right," Sharon called, and brought over Karen Hollefrend, 10, 558 David, her brother, Kurt, 6, and Nipper the dog. All, except Nipper, immediately began badgering Ald. McEwen with questions he good-naturedly tried to answer.

One of Ald. McEwen's visitors was an elderly gentleman who noted that the base of the fountain had been a trough used for watering horses in the old days.

"He said about 50 years ago he used to water his horse there and there was no traffic problem then," Ald. McEwen said.

Airliner Bodies Smashed

ISSOUDUN, Que. (CP) — Searchers reached the fuselage of a chartered DC-4 aircraft that crashed here Sunday and said Thursday night the bodies of all 79 persons aboard were shattered beyond recognition.

Investigators said they felt they had recovered all the remains of passengers and crew that could be found in the crater dredged in the soft swamp when the Maritime Central Airways' plane plummeted to the ground.

The fuselage was reached after mud was scooped out of the hole to a depth of some 25 feet. The fuselage was shattered by the blast that ripped through the plane when it struck the ground, littering pieces of the aircraft over a wide area.

The aircraft was on a flight from London to Toronto.

Ottawa Now Scout HQ

CAMBRIDGE, England (Reuters)—Delegates at the 16th International Scout conference here decided unanimously Thursday to move the headquarters of the International Scout bureau from London to Ottawa.

The bureau was set up in London in 1920 with the aim of promoting and expanding the Scout movement throughout the world.

Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry, 48, of Canada is the present director.

Going to West Indies

Margaret Busy Before B.C. Visit

A busy time is scheduled for Princess Margaret next year even before she comes here in July to officially open British Columbia's centennial celebrations.

Buckingham Palace announced yesterday that the princess will attend the inauguration of the federal legislature of the West Indies April 22, 1958, as the Queen's representative.

The announcement said the Queen had approved Princess Margaret's acceptance of the invitation.

Population of spreadeagled islands of West Indies group voted for federation earlier this year. Move is mostly domestic, serving to "tidy up" government by centralizing departments. Foreign and defence policies remain under Britain's control.

The B.C. government has been unofficially notified that Princess Margaret has accepted the invitation to come here.

Arrangements have been made for simultaneous announcements about the visit in London, Ottawa and Victoria. It is expected, however, that this action will be delayed until after the Queen's visit to Canada in October.

No Tally-Ho Stuff — Too Many Stumps

Island Foxes Reprieved

Visions of a fox hunt through the tall timber of northern Vancouver Island, including all the "yoicks" and "tally-ho" stuff, were conjured up momentarily yesterday and then lost again in that tall timber.

Vancouver Island Affiliated Fish and Game Clubs delegates were told at a convention in Nanaimo that foxes by the hundreds are becoming an ever-increasing menace to small game on the Island.

One member said the fox menace is as bad as the rabbit plague in Australia.

Louis Langlois of Duncan, who chaired the meeting, said a man reported foxes had been seen playing on the roads as far south as Horne Lake. They roam the northern portion of the Island from Oyster River to Cumberland and Courtenay, he said.

Members suggested organized hunts for the silver foxes, descendants of those which came to the Island in the 1920s for fur farms and then escaped.

"But this would be a mass hunt of men with rifles, not horses and hounds," he said.

"The latter would be out of the question in this country. It would hardly be practical, with all the stumps and timber up there."

As it turned out, provincial game department biologist Don Robinson told the meeting the department would take measures next year, and it was left at that. He said this year's poisoning program would not be carried out because of a delay in getting permission from landowners.

A Victoria man who has lived and hunted the fox in England, said who enjoys the sport, agreed that "they couldn't possibly use hounds up in that timber."

He hoped that "a clean poison or mass form of humane trap" is used by the game department. Most humane method, he said, would be for the foxes to be shot by hunters with rifles.

Too Late to 'Reinvoke' B.C. Birthday Invitations

By PETER BELTON

B.C. Centennial Committee officials haven't noticed it yet but the 500,000 ornate invitations sent out all over the world contains a word never before used in the English language.

In fact there is no such word as "reinvoked."

The invitation, signed by Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross and Premier Bennett, reads:

"Greetings. You are requested to attend British Columbia's 100th Birthday Party. A year of Thanksgiving and a Joyous Festival of Gaiety, Carnival and Pageantry — Spectacular Fetes by Sea, Air and Land—Melody, Dancing and Drama—Great Historic Scenes reinvoked before you—A year of Splendour, Revelry and Fun. Truly a Century to Celebrate."

Officials said yesterday it was too late to do anything about the mistake.

A check in the massive unabridged Webster's and Oxford Dictionaries failed to show such a word as "reinvoked." It is understood the copy should have read "re-enacted."

Officials said 500,000 copies had been printed and had gone out to all parts of the world to advertise next year's centennial celebrations.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SPEEDERS are still being treated as though they were gentlemen. By going faster than the law allows, they endanger life and property, but the police appear to look on them with kindly indulgence.

With all deference to a fine body of men (I'm saying this in case I get arrested for speeding myself) it seems to me that municipal police and RCMP are too polite to those who break the speed limits.

The Mounties put up a sign to warn motorists that they are approaching a speed trap. True, such signs may have a healthy psychological effect. They slow down highway hooligans for a little while, anyway, and reduce the risk of sudden death a little.

But how much better it would be if motorists could be induced to obey the law without the threat of a policeman watching them.

Some people regard the 30 and 50-mile-an-hour signs as purely ornamental, like hanging flower baskets. So when they are arrested for speeding — as they sometimes are — they look at the policeman with hurt, bewildered eyes.

Plenty of Warning

They think they are hard done by, even if the policeman cruises the highway in a clearly marked police car, erects a sign to say he's going to arrest them if they don't watch out, and blows a siren to let them know he's on his way.

But if a policeman sneaks up, the lawbreaker's howls of anger are terrible to hear. What is the country coming to, he complains, when the cops pussyfoot around trying to catch citizens by stealth?

To hear such moans and whines, anyone would think that "Cops and Motorists" was a happy little game in which motorists could use any dodge that entered their crafty minds, but cops had to play according to the rules of cricket.

Personally, I will feel happier when the police use every deceitful trick in the book. My respect for the police will be increased, not diminished, when they start prowling the roads in the guise of bearded cyclists, farmers driving hay-wagons and teen-agers in chopped cars.

Speeders are a menace. Any trick that can be used to capture them is fair play. The game is life nad death, not cricket.

Out to Quell 'Teen Terror

With a record of 22 deaths so far this year directly attributable to teenage hoodlums, New York police have assigned an extra 536 men to patrol 11 crime-ridden areas of the city. The instructions given to these rookie policemen is to "meet force with force."

New Roundabout Plan

Divert and Avoid Crush

Diversion of traffic before it reaches the Roundabout instead of the institution of one-way streets on Douglas and Government was suggested in a letter from Ald. Austin Curtis to Mayor Percy Scurrah made public last night.

"It is true that at certain times during the day there is traffic congestion at this point, but I do not think it is any more serious than that found in other places in the business area," Ald. Curtis stated.

"It appears now that city council has definitely decided to eliminate the Roundabout and put in the system of lights, and that there is determination to proceed with the first Faustman plan which involves one-way streets over a short distance of Government and Douglas Streets.

"I strenuously oppose this," Ald. Curtis said.

He said the institution of the plan immediately involves additional expense of several thousands of dollars. He stated he would vote against transfer of the money from contingency funds.

Ald. Curtis said Ald. M. H. Mooney, chairman of the public works committee, told him it would cost $5,000 to re-introduce the two-way street system if the one-way system proved unsatisfactory.

'Reasonable Optimism'

Low Ocean Rates Prove Lifesaver For B.C. Lumber

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lumber operators on the West Coast say that a gradual drop in ocean freight rates is making the lumber picture brighter.

Officials said rates have dropped 40 to 45 per cent since January and now are at their lowest point in more than two years.

One exporter said Thursday there is "some reasonable optimism" that the industry is moving into a healthier period. He would not translate the freight rate drop into dollars but said that B.C. now can deliver lumber in the United Kingdom on a more competitive basis.

A lumber operator said, "the recent drop in ocean freight rates has come as a life-saver to the coast industry. Otherwise we would be in very bad shape today."

Officials said the lower freight rates resulted from a general slackening in world trade which made more cargo space available for lumber. Rates could rise again this winter.

The upswing in exports would not help coast lumber operators immediately because log prices were still depressed and log stocks high.

Entry list for the annual teen-agers' Beaver-Elk Lake swim totalled about 50 when the registrations closed last night.

Late entries are still expected to come in by mail from swimmers now at Kelowna and others up-Island.

The annual Labor Day event had more than 80 entries last year for the two-mile swim.

Entries for other events including the sprint races and diving competitions will be accepted up to the final day.

Also scheduled for Labor Day is the final Showboat program featuring winners of the weekly talent shows during August.

Boats are still needed by the swim committee to ensure that every swimmer has a guide boat. Anyone wishing to volunteer a boat should call 9-4131.

Maj. Jason Girganos, the Greek swimmer who wants to conquer the strait discovered by a countryman in 1592, will make another attempt to cross the tide-ripped waters Sunday.

He announced last night that he will leave Horseshoe Bay at 10 a.m., following the same route and with almost identical tides as in the Jaycee mass swim.

In that swim, Maj. Girganos was hauled from the water after 3½ hours in which he made about 2½ miles.

Athens Social Club of Vancouver is sponsoring the swimmer, who has swum the English channel four times.

The Greek discoverer of the strait was skipper of a Spanish vessel and was named Juan de Fuca by his crew.

City council officials and representatives of the B.C. Electric Company have agreed that something must be done to stop vibrations caused by buses in the Haultain-Victor area, residents said yesterday.

The residents complained that the vibrations had become steadily worse and recently became so bad that a clock fell off a wall when a bus passed one house.

Both city council and B.C. Electric officials visited the area after residents had complained.

One solution offered was that the buses be routed up Bay instead of Haultain.

Compensation

Farmers Demand Millions

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his cabinet were urged Thursday to grant Prairie grain growers payments of $100,000,000 or more to compensate them for high production costs and low grain prices. The proposal came from the Interprovincial Farm Union Council which, in a brief, suggested that wheat growers be given 20 cents a bushel on all their deliveries to the wheat board in the last crop year and that barley and oats growers get some similar payment.

This would be in addition to the growers' normal wheat board payments.

Russia Kills Hopes

LONDON (UP)—The Soviet Union bluntly told the West yesterday there could be no disarmament agreement without some reduction of foreign forces in Germany and elimination of some overseas bases elsewhere.

Soviet delegate Valerian A. Zorin told the five-power U.N. disarmament subcommittee he felt negotiations not only had failed to make progress but had taken a step backward since they started last March.

He said the Soviet Union would insist that a third-step reduction of U.S. and Soviet forces to 1,700,000 men not be linked to political conditions such as German reunification.

Silent Alarm Nabs Pair From City

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two Victoria men were given jail terms in magistrate's court yesterday on charges of breaking into a cleaning plant.

Richard Lewers, 22, was sentenced to six months definite and 12 months indefinite in the Young Offenders' Unit of Oakalla and Wendell Botterill, 25, was given a six-month sentence for breaking into Swan Brothers' Cleaners, Aug. 6.

Police said they were summoned by a silent alarm and found Lewers hiding in a dry cleaning machine. They said they arrested Botterill as he was running out the front door.

Canada Shields Rich, Hits Poor In Drug Addiction, Says Expert

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Alfred R. Lindesmith of Indiana University says Canada is using an illegal method to treat some confirmed drug addicts.

Dr. Lindesmith, who is lecturing at the tenth annual Alberta-Saskatchewan-Manitoba school of narcotic education in Saskatoon said:

"You are already using the system with selected addicts from the upper classes. You are giving favored treatment to some addicts, which keeps these people from becoming criminals.

Dr. Lindesmith was referring to the 1956 Stevenson report on narcotic addiction here, in which Dr. George H. Stevenson said there was one law for the "criminal addict" and another more lenient one for the "professional medical addict."

Lazybones Cuts the Lawn

David W. Howell, 18, of Whittier, Calif., is a lazy young man who has wearied of watching suburbanites chasing lawnmowers over lawns. Believing that grass cutting should not interfere with one's weekend leisure, he devised the "Mighty Mow," a remote-controlled device which he demonstrates here in Central Park, New York. It won him a prize in the Ford annual Industrial Arts Award contest.

Canada Police Urge:

Keep the Noose As Deterrent

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police union representatives of municipal forces in the three western provinces went on record Thursday as favoring retention of capital punishment.

The resolution, to be forwarded to the minister of justice, said capital punishment for murder and treason is needed because it is "a strong deterrent to the potential and hardened criminal contemplating a serious crime."

The Western Canada Police Association meeting in Hotel Vancouver also recommended two changes concerning juveniles.

One was to amend the criminal code to establish a uniform age in all provinces at which a juvenile becomes an addict. The other was to provide for presentation of juvenile records when a youth appears in adult court on criminal charges.

Public Probe Promised Into Crash

ISSOUDUN, Que. (BUP) — A public inquiry will be held into the crash of the chartered DC-3 airliner owned by Maritime Central Airways, which crashed in a muskeg swamp near here last Sunday with the loss of 79 lives, Transport Minister George Hees announced in Ottawa.

First Offender Finds Police Court Costly

When Stanley James Crawford, 2352 Vancouver, appeared before Magistrate A. I. Thomas in city police court yesterday, charged with careless driving, he told the court it was his first offence, and his first appearance in any police court.

It proved to be costly.

Crawford was fined $50, and the court recommended a three-month suspension of his driver's licence.

Const. John Rickerby testified the car in front of him failed to move at a green light until the police car blew its horn.

Then, the officer said, Crawford's car sped up Government Street at about 50 miles an hour, weaving over a traffic line.

A red traffic light at Bay halted accused's car and Const. James Smith left the police car and told the driver to pull to the curb.

Const. Rickerby said the accused drove off, leaving Const. Smith in the street.

When police caught him again Crawford put up an argument, said the constable, but finally was persuaded to park his car in a nearby lot and walk home.

Driving around the block, the constables saw accused get back into his car and start to drive away. He was arrested and locked up overnight.

Saanich Hall Referendum

IF Saanich ratepayers feel somewhat confused when they go to vote on the municipal hall referendum tomorrow, that won't be surprising. Conflicting explanations of what is implied in the referendum have made it difficult for any ratepayer who has not followed Saanich politics closely to understand its significance.

It might be useful, therefore, to point out that this is far more important to the future of Saanich than the mere provision of extended office space. On the face of it the question put to the taxpayers looks simple enough: whether or not they are willing to have administrative needs met by an addition to the present hall, which is a cramped, makeshift headquarters for a rapidly expanding district. Much more than that is involved, however. If the taxpayers approve this money by-law that will be the end of negotiations towards the construction of a joint civic building in conjunction with the City of Victoria. It will also put one more obstacle in the way of resumption of discussions on the subject of amalgamation.

It has been represented by the faction in the Saanich council opposed both to amalgamation and to sharing a hall with the City without amalgamation that approval of a $225,000 addition to the old hall would not make any difference; that at a later date if desirable the new building could be put to other useful purposes. That is a little hard to accept. Once municipal departments were established in new quarters at the old stand they would be likely to remain there for a long time.

There is the further point that the council, with the exception of Reeve Ash, is not entitled to the approval it now seeks because it has ignored the wishes the ratepayers expressed last December. At that time the voters by a majority of three to one called for further study of the feasibility of a joint City-Saanich municipal hall. The council has made no attempt whatever to comply with that instruction, and instead has put forward this single-hall project regardless of the earlier expression of choice.

In the circumstances the reeve's request for a "no" vote seems perfectly reasonable. If that is the ratepayers' answer tomorrow no harm, either temporary or lasting, will be done. The municipal staff can be found the accommodation they need at very much less cost and just as quickly; and the door will then be left open for a more long-sighted examination of the future of Saanich.

Highway Building

ONE would have to travel B.C. roads under construction in an impartial mood rightly to assess the validity of the criticism hurled at the highways department. Few if any motorists have that frame of mind when travelling; they are concerned only with their own comfort and convenience. That is quite natural but it makes their opinion biased. The joker too is that their protests would be even stronger if the department undertook no reconstruction but left highways in poor shape.

How it can be expected that rerouting and rebuilding a highway can be done without serious interruption to traffic is a mystery. In any other form of construction in fact the public would be warned off entirely until the job was finished. The construction workers thus have a double problem to cope with: to deal with the difficulty of the terrain and yet keep the road open for travel. Under the circumstances they manage this very well. Motorists annoyed by rough going probably never give thought to the annoyance they are causing by interfering with the work being done.

Victorians are more interested in the Malahat reconstruction, which admittedly has been a sore spot now for two summers. The highways minister concedes that perhaps too long sections have been tackled at one time, but against this he sets the economy of this method and the incalculable factor of weather. These cannot legitimately be ignored, nor can the Island Highway be rebuilt during the winter months. There is no escape from some disruption of tourist travel if first-class highways are to be made, the very thing tourist promoters are always crying for.

There is now, however, the promise that by the end of next month the Malahat section will be finished except for the final asphalt coating to be applied next spring. Until then a reasonably good surface will make travel comparatively easy. By next summer it may be taken for granted that the hullabaloo will be ended, with the critics loud in their praise of a fine new speedway; and forgetting their grumbles that they couldn't eat their cake and have it too.

No Change Meantime

OTTAWA correspondents who pressed Mr. St. Laurent this week for his views on the Liberal Party leadership were left not much wiser, at least as regards the long-term future. After a conference with members of his former cabinet he said only that he expects no change in the present situation assuming there will be an election next spring. The implication therefore, and one accepted by the correspondents, was that he will lead his party again in such an election.

The former prime minister spoke guardedly and events between now and then may bring about a change. It would be typical of Mr. St. Laurent nevertheless to accept the challenge of the Liberals regaining power under his aegis, and as far as Quebec is concerned — now the Liberals' only stronghold — his would be the personality that might keep that province in the federal Liberal camp. An English-speaking successor as party leader would not have the same influence. On the other hand there is need for the Liberals to gain strength outside Quebec, hence in some quarters the feeling that a change of leadership is needed.

The next few months should clear the picture, as the new Parliament opens and plans are laid by all parties for another test at the polls. Prime Minister Diefenbaker may of course fool the experts by not calling an election next spring, in which case the future role of Mr. St. Laurent may undergo revision. Time will tell. Meanwhile the former prime minister was either in whimsical mood or doing himself injustice when he expressed surprise that Ottawa correspondents were still interested in what he had to say. Any man who has been prime minister of Canada will always be of interest and a figure commanding respect.

Interpreting the News

Dulles the Bumbler

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles will look like a boob if the verdict of history agrees with one just rendered by Senator William Fulbright of Arkansas.

The senator blasted Dulles—in a speech to the U.S. Senate Wednesday—for his handling of Egyptian President Nasser who retaliated by seizing the Suez Canal. The seizure of the canal led to last year's Middle East war.

There won't be a final verdict for years until the documents showing Dulles' policy on Egypt are finally opened to the public. But Fulbright has just examined many of those documents as chairman of a Senate subcommittee which studied U.S. Middle East policy since 1945.

* * *

This is the brief background: For years Egypt had wanted to build the Aswan Dam which would take the country out of the middle ages by developing irrigation and power for industry. The project was found to be sound.

Egypt said it would pay most of the cost but needed outside help. Russia offered the help. So did the United States. The U.S. proposed giving Egypt $54,000,000 immediately and a total of $150,000,000 over 10 years.

On July 18, 1956 Dulles suddenly cancelled the American offer. He suggested Egypt couldn't afford such a dam after tying up her resources for arms purchases. This apparently angered Nasser who quickly seized the Suez Canal.

* * *

Within a few months this led to the British-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt, a temporary split between the U.S. and Britain and France, and anger throughout the Arab world.

The Eisenhower administration gave three reasons for withdrawing its help: Egypt's neighbor on the Nile, where the dam would be built, hadn't agreed to the building; Egypt couldn't afford the dam; and some members of the U.S. Congress were opposed.

Fulbright said none of these was a valid reason. Then what was Dulles' motive? This is a prime question, which Fulbright hasn't answered. Was it, perhaps, to force a showdown with Russia which had volunteered to help Egypt build the dam?

Fulbright went on to picture Dulles as a bumbler who acted without realizing the goodwill the U.S. would win in the Arab world if the dam were built or the harsh reaction in Egypt if the offer to help were withdrawn.

Fulbright blamed the withdrawal for Nasser's seizure of the canal, the invasion which followed and a big increase in Soviet influence in Egypt.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

WHEN is a snob not a snob? Never, it would seem, judging by a diverting piece in Maclean's by Hugh Garner. The first snob must have been the caveman who fashioned a better club than the chap next door.

Which is to say that snobbery has been with man since Adam. He at least could boast that no other man gave a rib to make a wife.

It is the boasting, direct or by implication, that does it. So one deduces from Mr. Garner's range of example, slightly suspect since he is building a case under the caption, "For the sake of argument."

At least I hope so. Otherwise there would be no escape from his indictment.

Being a prudent man he eschews, in the main, the social snob—although if he thinks there is little of this breed in Canada he is vastly mistaken—and devotes himself to what you might call material snobberies.

Such as instanced by the automobile snob (big car), the job snob (fancy title), vacation snob (Florida tan), intellectual snob (Penguin classics), thespian snob (sloppy clothes), and so on. These are the people he assails as showing off by being different.

* * *

Then, he says, we have become snobs about a lot of other things—national origins, religion, hi-fi records, kitchen gadgets, taste in clothes, knowledge of music or poetry; in short nearly everything that touches our daily lives.

To me that would eliminate the word snobbery, leaving only the dictionary definition, which is probably the pertinent one; for if the human urge for nice things, or betterment in any direction, or elevation in one's status, or tasteful appreciation, is to display snobbery, as Mr. Garner implies, then this sin is so commonplace and so natural it cannot be a sin.

If there were no room for pride or self-satisfaction in some endeavor it would be rather a blue lookout.

He means, I suppose, that it is the air of possession that is the nub of the matter; the superior attitude which suggests that the non-possessor is thereby inferior. True enough, although not everyone with a high-fi set, or a Rembrandt, or a streamlined bathroom, turns up his nose because his neighbour can't match his acquisitions.

Thank goodness, no.

* * *

What does surprise me, and it will most of those he calls sports pundits, is that a bent for athletic minutiae is a form of snobbery. Yours truly isn't exactly a collector of statistics but among other things he is a "sports-reading egg-head" (Mr. Garner's term) and this comes as a shock. Also when on reads that such a being's cranium is "otherwise empty."

That alone might suggest Mr. Garner is a snob himself, although, to give him credit, he admits his life has included many of the snobberies he assails.

I doubt however that the grandmother who won a TV quiz fortune because of her sporting knowledge ever thought this made her a snob. She might have become one afterwards—big car, higher aerial, a different hat every day—but scarcely before.

For, of course, it would mean that in all conversation—about sport, books, interior decoration, politics, perambulators or what have you—one would have to suppress whatever knowledge he had of the subject for fear of appearing to be a snob.

It would put ignorance at a premium.

In fact if Mr. Garner is correct the whole human race is so snobbish, about everything, it's a waste of time even to argue the case. As well say we all breathe air.

Report on Disarmament

Impractical Soviet Demands

By W. N. EWER, from London

THE report of the Five-Powers-Disarmament Sub-Committee to the main Disarmament Commission in New York is not in itself a document of major significance. It is an interim report. It records the proceedings of the current session to date and it notifies the commission that the sub-committee is continuing its work. But it affords the occasion for a survey of the present state of that work.

In fact, the discussions of the past months have divided themselves under three headings. They are inter-related and inter-connected. The only suggestion for separate treatment has been that by the Soviet delegation that the question of a suspension of nuclear tests should be the subject of a separate negotiation and agreement. But that has not been accepted by "the American, British, Canadian and French delegations for very valid reasons.

Nevertheless, it seems convenient to consider them one by one. The three are: the reduction and limitation of armed forces and conventional arms; air and ground inspection as a safeguard against the possibility of surprise attacks; and nuclear weapons.

* * *

On the first subject there is quite a wide field of agreement on the general principles. It is agreed that there should be an initial and "partial" measure of disarmament. It is agreed that, as a first step, the manpower of the forces of the U.S. and the Soviet Union should be reduced to 2,500,000 million men, of France and the United Kingdom to 750,000 men. It is agreed also the amounts of conventional weapons that should be removed from service and stored under international supervision. It is agreed that there should be a reduction and limitation of military budgets.

So far, so good. But the experience of a disarmament conference between wars is a reminder and warning that much work needs to be done before such general agreements can be translated into definite and detailed agreements.

There is the definition of manpower — a troublesome one in the "old" conference. There is the question of the types and quantities of arms to be placed under international control. There is the nature of that control. There is the question of international supervision to ensure that the agreements are being kept. All these, and a number of other technical problems, have to be solved. It will take time.

That is why the British delegation has proposed that, while the sub-committee continues its discussions on other matters, expert working parties should get to work at once on the technical problems. The Soviet rejection of that practical proposal is a great disappointment.

The second subject brought into the forefront by Mr. Dulles' visit is that of aerial and ground inspection as a safeguard against sudden aggression. President Eisenhower first put it forward at the "Summit" Conference in 1955. The Russians have accepted the principle. But when, after obtaining the assent of all the NATO powers that would be affected, Mr. Dulles produced a proposal (or rather alternative proposals), for the areas to be opened to such inspection, Mr. Zorin's reaction was anything but favorable. He objected to the exclusion of the areas of Northern Africa and Southern Asia, though it has been pointed out to him that in this initial project China has also been omitted. But though the first Russian reaction has been disappointing, it does not yet seem to be final. So there is still room for hope.

* * *

It is in the third field, that of nuclear weapons, that there is at present something of a deadlock. For the Soviet delegation continues to insist on two prior conditions which the Western powers are unable to accept. First is that there should be an agreement to cease the "tests"—unrelated to anything else.

The Western delegations regard this as useless unless there is a simultaneous agreement to stop the production of fissile material for nuclear weapons on a definite date. But they have suggested that, while negotiation continues, experts should at once start work on devising and planning a system of inspection which it is agreed would be necessary for the suspension of the tests. That, surprisingly and disappointingly, the Russians have rejected.

The second Soviet demand is for an immediate undertaking by all powers concerned that they will not use any nuclear weapons in any circumstances — even self defence. To that the Western powers cannot, in existing circumstances, agree. The banning of nuclear weapons is one of their declared objectives. But they can hardly be expected to renounce the use of their present most effective instrument of defence and most effective "deterrent" to aggression.

The "ban" can come when there has been a sufficient reduction of "conventional forces, an effective system of inspection and a reassuring reduction of international "tension." To agree to it here and now would not bring disarmament. It would merely tip the existing balance of armed force heavily in favor of the Soviet bloc.

* * *

So my over-all impression is that there are a number of avenues which can still be hopefully explored. But that at the moment each of them is blocked either by impracticable Soviet demands or by Soviet objections to practical proposals. One can only hope that this is a passing phase.

New Horror Looms

(From The Printed Word)

TRIAL of a new gadget is reported from Allentown, Pa. It is "a vest-pocket, radio-controlled whistle that can inform a person he's wanted on the telephone even though he's miles away from his phone." The gadget, about the size of a packet of cigarets, may be carried in his pocket by the subscriber to the service. When his number is called and not answered, the telephone company operator sends out a radio signal, which sounds the whistle if the subscriber is within an eight-mile radius. The subscriber then goes to the nearest telephone, dials a prearranged number and is put in touch with his caller.

The Pennsylvania company says it has already signed up several customers for the new service. These include doctors, television repairmen, and insurance salesmen. These may find the service worth the cost quoted of $5 a month for 80 calls plus an additional five cents for each call over the eighty. Others may hesitate before subscribing.

Judging from some telephone users' experiences elsewhere, about 20 calls out of the 80 will be wrong numbers. 10 more will be from women trying to sell tickets in aid of some charity in which the telephone subscriber is not interested; another 15 will be to tell the lucky person that he has been awarded $25 worth of free dancing lessons by the Mary Arthur Studio and seven or eight will be inquiries about what radio or television program is he tuned in on.

To quote the moral of one of Benjamin Franklin's parables, one can pay too much for a whistle.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

As a brake on inflation, families are urged to buy only the things they need. Trouble is that the attitude of the average family is that if the stores have it, they need it.

Money, of course, isn't everything. Still, it's pretty hard to get any sympathy in misfortune, no matter how bad, as long as you are insured.

An editor who was noted for his caustic wit received a lengthy poem written on perfumed paper and tied with pink ribbon from a woman contributor. The title of the poem was "I Wonder Will He Miss Me?"

The editor returned the poem with a note saying: "Dear Madam, if he does, he should never again be trusted with firearms."

Safety experts say one of the hazards of driving on the highways is the monotony. An easy way to overcome this is to travel with three small children in the back seat.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

WE have had trouble this past summer with one of our nephews. It has become next to impossible to get him in swimming, even for an ablutionary bath.

Up until a year ago he was an inveterate swimmer, and had been since his first five-year-old strokes. He was a water skier, quite a skilled diver. There is a 30-foot cliff at our resort off which all the young ladies and gentlemen, on reaching sixteen or so, dive to prove their emancipation from childhood. My nephew made the jump when he was 13. He He swam the half mile across the bay when 14. He was in the water before breakfast, before lunch and for the long late afternoon community slosh, and I thought of him as amphibian.

Last summer he went out west on one of those conducted tours of his school fellows. And in Alberta when they were camped by a beautiful mountain lake he was the leader of the pack in tearing off his clothes and taking a running jump and a high looping dive into the pretty water.

It was a glacier lake.

"In less than one second," he says, "I was cured of swimming for life. I don't know how I made the shore. I don't expect ever to feel such pain all the rest of my life, including appendicitis, a broken leg, the royal Canadian bellyache and the glunt. They say you go numb in ice water. I went double numb. I went stiff, including my brain. The other guys, being the kind who run full belt into the water and then pause a moment, saw my reaction and didn't dive in. They reached out with oars and paddles and pulled me ashore. My eyeballs were frozen. I was bright blue all over. They say my lips were fluorescent black. They put me in two sleeping bags, one inside the other, and took turns pummelling me to restore circulation. From that day to this, even a hot bath looks frightening to me. Ice cold cokes fill me with horror. Last spring, when the snow was melting and the streets were full of running water, I wore hip rubber boots to school."

"You'll get over it," I assured him.

"No, sir," he declared firmly, "From now on, I'm dry cleaned."

Letters to the Editor

'No' for Progress

In asking for a resounding "no" in the Saanich referendum on Saturday we only do so after a lot of thought. When we ask our fellow-voters to say "no" with us, we do so mainly because we think the spending of this large amount is going to be a very expensive remedy for the overcrowding at Royal Oak.

Worse than that, it carries a partly-concealed sting in its tail because it is pretty effectively going to block us off from economies in the future. The economies, of course, must come from the combining and improving of many of the more than 25 departments which do the housekeeping for Greater Victoria today.

We hope for a loud "no" because we think that the fastest-growing municipality on the Island should be taking the lead in that direction, not drawing back into a hard-shelled village attitude that scorns and fears it as interference from "city slickers."

We feel that a big "no" on Saturday will keep Saanich on the main line of urban growth, and we look forward to good sense carrying the day for real progress.

CHARLES M. NELLES,
Chairman, December 12th Group.

Honor the Pioneers

Just what are we doing to pay our respects to the pioneer men and women of the great province of British Columbia during centennial year? That is a question that many people are wondering about and asking themselves.

Could the B.C. Centennial committee come out and put into concrete words just what they plan or may have in mind. "Applaud our pioneers" reads very nicely but conveys nothing of a definite nature. This was extracted from one of the colored folders circulated by the B.C. Centennial Committee.

Needless to add every citizen is wholeheartedly behind our centennial committee and we will go the limit with them in honoring and paying tribute to our pioneers. May we further suggest a cash gift to each and every pioneer citizen of B.C.

Security Note 'Not Explicit' But Soothing

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday a United States note on security information on Canadians supplied to the U.S. by Canada is "not explicit."

However, he said in a statement issued by his office that "it seems evident that the directive given United States agencies concerning their procedures in handling security information is consistent in substance with the assurance Canada had sought."

The U.S. note, signed by Robert Murphy, deputy undersecretary of state, was delivered in Washington Tuesday to Norman Robertson, Canadian ambassador to the U.S. and made public Thursday.

It said "the procedures which have been followed by the security agencies of my government in the past and which they will continue to follow in the future, including the handling of information received from Canadian sources, are consistent with the assurances you seek."

It was in reply to a request by Canada that security information on Canadians supplied to the U.S. from this country be kept under the control of the American administration.

The case, which brought on a Canada-U.S. squabble last spring stemmed from the April 4 suicide in Cairo of Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Egypt. The suicide followed by less than a month allegations by the U.S. Senate internal security sub-committee that Mr. Norman was a Communist.

Plane Landed Safely Without Propeller

A few minutes after take-off this plane lost its propeller, causing the pilot, William Harris, Toronto, to bring it down on a farm field. The ship was 1,200 feet above Malton, Ont., when the prop disappeared and the plane dived for several hundred feet. Harris regained control and suffered only a black eye in the forced landing.

The nose cone of the three-stage rocket, which one source reported travelled at a speed of 15,000 miles an hour, was recovered in the Atlantic Ocean.

Perfect to Hold Glass of Beer

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) —The president of a cripples welfare association described Wednesday an American artificial arm so realistic its fingerprints have to be registered with the FBI. Sir Kenneth Coles, president of the International Society for the Welfare of Cripples, told reporters at Sydney Airport that the arm also is "perfect for holding a glass of beer."

Storm-Tossed Okanagan Beats Game Ann Meraw

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Ann Meraw was pulled from Lake Okanagan yesterday after a strong north wind made the water too rough for her to complete a 34.5-mile marathon swim from Kelowna to Penticton. She swam nearly 26 miles.

The lake water was so turbulent that the accompanying boat did not reach shore until 10 a.m. to tell of Mrs. Meraw's failure although she was pulled out at 8:17 a.m.

The 37-year-old Vancouver housewife said she allowed herself to be taken out because she couldn't see calm water ahead. Her right leg, which had bothered her all night, was dragging badly. She was taken from the lake at Paradise Ranch near Naramata.

the new kind of FORD SOLID SILENT SAFE

There's a new kind of value in the new kind of Ford—it's the fine car at half the fine-car price.

Beneath Ford's sculptured-in-steel beauty is the new "Inner Ford" . . . the solid reason for that "big-car" ride. This year Ford is the car that's all-new from the wheels up, with brand-new frame, suspension and body integrated into one solid, silent unit.

You ride in safety surrounded by new strength because Ford builds the widest and sturdiest frame in its field. The new bodies are the strongest ever made for a low-priced car—doors close with massive authority. And no other manufacturer's car offers such generous insulation to protect you against weather, dust and noise. You enjoy the kind of comfort you once thought came only in high-priced cars.

The new kind of Ford has proved its ability to take it. Ford set 458 world endurance and performance records at Bonneville, Utah. Every way you figure it, you get a whole lot more automobile for your money in the new '57 Ford. No wonder Ford is called the fine car at half the fine-car price. And no wonder Ford is worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it!

Get the facts first hand—invest ten minutes of your time with your Ford-Monarch dealer and investigate the new kind of Ford.

Watch Ford T.V. Theatre on Television. Check your local listings for day and time.

Going to the Series? You Can Plan It Now

There's still enough time left—six weeks—to change things around quite a bit, but baseball fans are already making their world series reservations in Milwaukee and New York and speculating what will happen when the Braves try the Yankees for size.

A season-long ability to beat the Cincinnati Reds and the recent inability of the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals to handle two second-division clubs have enabled the Braves to make a shambles of the National League race.

In the American League, the Yanks aren't doing any streaking but neither are the only club they have to worry about, the Chicago White Sox. The Sox usually win when the Yanks lose, then reverse the procedure.

OUT OF SIGHT

The sizzling Braves, powered yesterday by Hank Aaron and with Warren Spahn on the firing line, blasted the Reds, 8-1, to extend their winning streak to 10 games and boost their lead to eight and a half games.

There was help again from Chicago Cubs and New York Giants, who both put another nail into the coffins which hold what is left of the pennant hopes of the Cardinals and Dodgers.

Aaron sent the Braves winging to their 14th victory in 16 games with a three-run homer in the first inning, then walloped his 34th round-tripper with a mate aboard in the seventh. Spahn rolled along evenly for his 13th win in 21 decisions.

CARDS PAID, TOO

At Chicago, the $80,000 bonus the Cubs paid to Moe Drabowsky cost the Cardinals plenty as they failed to do a thing with the young righthander, who struck out seven in a 4-1 triumph.

It was the ninth straight loss for the Redbirds, their longest losing streak since 1947. Six of the defeats have been at the hands of the seventh-place Cubs.

Led by Valmy Thomas, a light-hitting rookie catcher who drove in four runs with a home run and triple, the Giants made it five victories in their last six games with the Dodgers, coming from behind for a 9-4 win.

Ted Williams picked up ground on Mickey Mantle in the American League's interesting race for the batting championship, but the Yankees boosted their lead back to five and a half games by besting Boston Red Sox, 6-3, while the White Sox lost to Cleveland, 5-4.

PICKS UP SLACK

Williams had a double and single in three trips to boost his average to .393. Mantle, hitless for the first time in nine games, struck out twice and walked three times to fall to .380. But Gil McDougald came through with a two-run homer in the eighth inning to provide what proved to be the needed runs.

As for the White Sox, they were slapped down by an ex-teammate, Chico Carrasquel, who climaxed a five-run Cleveland rally in the sixth with a grand-slam home run after an error set things up.

Vancouver Mounties dropped three games behind San Francisco in the Pacific Coast Baseball League last night as they lost, 3-1, to Hollywood Stars in their series-opener while the Seals were thumping Portland Beavers, 13-6.

Ben Wade won his eighth game for the Stars, but needed help from Fred Waters in the eighth inning when the surging Mounties were threatening to come from behind again.

Waters came in with one out, bases loaded and Jim Marshall, who had already hit his 20th home run, a triple and a single, at bat. Marshall grounded into a double play to end the threat.

Erv Palica tok the loss, his 11th against 12 wins. Palica, who was pulled for a pinch-hitter in the seventh, had retired the last 15 batters he faced.

Victoria-Portland Final Set In Seniors' Golf Tournament

Bill Blakely, a genial Portland shotsmith who dropped out of one tournament so he could have another shot at this one, will meet George Sparling of Sidney this morning in the championship final of the 35th annual Pacific Northwest Seniors Golf Association tournament at Victoria Golf Club.

Blakely, who was beaten by Ed Eisenhower in the semi-finals last year, entered the final yesterday with a 2 and 1 victory over Paul Pigott of Seattle.

Sparling, a three-time Vancouver Island seniors champion who has never made the championship round of the PNW, continued to show steady golf and trounced Dick Clay of the host club, 5 and 4.

WISE CHOICE?

Blakely, playing in his second PNW tournament, was medalist in the Oregon state seniors championships last week, but dropped out because, as he puts it, "This is one I just love to play."

Medalist in last year's tournament, he qualified with a four-over-par 73 this year, then proceeded to thump H. Rendell of Vancouver and H. L. Davis, 6 and 5. Blakely plays to a one handicap, and is two-time Oregon State champion.

On the other hand, Sparling, who plays to an eight handicap, came up with the upset of the tournament in the first round when he defeated former champion Roger Peck of Tacoma at the 19th. He followed the victory wtih a 2 and 1 win over H. Edgell of Vancouver.

STRONG GAME

Blakely, who admitted that he "played rather well considering" in yesterday's match, birdied the fifth hole to go one up, picked up another birdie on the eighth and was one under par at the turn. Pigott took the 10th and 14th, but Blakely parred the 16th and wound up the match with a par on the 17th.

Sparling started quickly, winning the first two holes. He was three up at the turn, won the 11th, lost the 12th, and took the next two holes to clinch his first berth in the final.

In other final play today, W. H. Abbott of Bellingham meets G. L. Butterfield of Seattle for the "AA" championship. Roy Campbell takes on C. J. Robertson of Victoria in the "A" championship. Rudie Wilhelm of Portland plays Eisenhower in the "B" class final, H. S. Perkins of Tacoma plays J. H. Brown of Victoria in "C" class, and Dr. E. M. Taylor of Portland goes against F. Watson of Seattle in the "D" championship.

BILL PRIOR LYLE CORNETT

Righthander Bill Prior will pitch for Farmer Construction tonight at Royal Athletic Park when the Victoria club meets Bellingham Bells in the first game of best-of-three series for Northwest Semi-Pro Baseball League title. Versatile Lyle Cornett, one of Farmers' heaviest hitters, will switch from catcher to third base. Game time is 8 p.m.

Another Lacrosse Riot As 'Bellies Tie Series

NEW WESTMINSTER—New Westminster Salmonbellies and Nanaimo Timbermen are playing for keeps in their best-of-five Inter-City Lacrosse League semi-final, and if things continue as they have in the first two games, the survivors, if any, won't have much left for Victoria Shamrocks in the final.

Salmonbellies squared the series at 1-1 Thursday night with a 17-5 victory after one of the wildest games of the season.

In the first game, at Nanaimo Tuesday, the Timbermen came out on top, 13-9, in riotous game which saw a wild free-for-all and 50 minutes in penalties.

CARRIED OVER

Ill feeling from that game was apparently carried over and things broke loose properly in the second half. Referees fought sturdily to maintain order, handing out 74 minutes in penalties, 53 to the Nanaimo club.

Players indulged in another free-for-all and Timbermen lost all arguments as well as the game. Included in their penalty total was 10 minutes to Spud Morelli for a game misconduct received for arguing too strenuously with the officials and a 10-minute misconduct to Don Ashbee for a similar offense.

As to the game itself, it was New Westminster's almost from the start. Salmonbellies held a 2-1 scoring edge in the first quarter, then gained momentum steadily against the irascible Nanaimo team, scoring three goals in the second quarter, four in the third and winding up with eight in the final 15 minutes.

FOUR FOR CLIFF

Cliff Sepka did the best against the harrassed Alf Shuker, popping four goals behind the Nanaimo goalkeeper, who returned to action after being laid low in Tuesday's game.

Brother Don scored once and passed for four goals while Doug McCrory, Bill Jobb and Vern Wilkie each scored twice.

Joe White scored two for the losers, who managed only 26 shots at the steady Stan Joseph.

Third game is scheduled for Nanaimo tomorrow night with the remaining games set for next week.

Fans Leave Smiling As Hotelmen Upset

If there's one thing fans in the Senior "A" Men's Softball League like to see, it's Gorge Hotel taking a beating, and if Half Way House does the beating, so much the better.

Half Ways sent the capacity crowd away happy at Central Park last night, whipping the Gorgemen, 9-5, in the opening game of their best-of-five semi-final playoff series.

INFIELD LEAKS

The usually dependable Gorge infield fell apart in the first two innings and Half Way went wild to score seven runs off ace righthander Barry Jackson. Half Way added single runs in the fourth and fifth before Gorge struck for all of its runs in an eighth-inning rally.

Second game of the series will be played Saturday night. Duncan Mayo Lumber and Arrow Furniture meet in the second game of their series tonight at Central Park at 6:30.

Bobby Lowe started off the first inning with a walk, and both Bob Embleton and Ben Price were safe on errors when they laid down sacrifice bunts. Jim John hit a two-run double and two more runs scored on Jeff Worrall's single.

Lowe doubled in another run in the second inning, Embleton singled, and both runers scored when Jackson threw wide at first on a one-hop grounder by Price.

John's double scored the run in the fourth, and another double by Lowe plated the final run in the fifth. A two-run triple by Chick Newman highlighted the Gorge rally.

Colt League All-Stars Play in World Series

A long-shot gamble that paid off has given the Capital City Colt League something that no other Greater Victoria minor baseball league has ever achieved—a berth in a North American playoff.

The Colt League all-stars leave Victoria Sunday for Ontario, California, to compete against seven American clubs in the annual Colt World Series.

By all the odds, the trip should never have come off. As the only Colt League in Canada, the Victoria loop was invited to compete in the series, then had the invitation withdrawn because they had not competed against another league in playoffs.

MADE CHANCE GOOD

But the door was left at least part way open. The Victoria all-stars were invited to play three exhibition games against Richland, Washington, as part of the Atomic Frontier Day celebration, and officials hinted that if the club did well against the Americans perhaps, and only perhaps, the invitation to the World Series would be reissued.

The trip to Richland was made last weekend. Victoria won the first game, 10-9, played to a scoreless tie in the second, and lost the third, 4-2. The club's performance was good enough to warrant a personal invitation from the head of the Colt League to come to the series.

Victoria's entry arrives in the California city Tuesday and will play its first game either Wednesday or Thursday.

TEAM PICKED

Making the trip are Bill White, catcher; Brent Siddon, pitcher; Don Collier, centre-field; Jim Peters, shortstop; Steve Bishop, pitcher, and Phil Myer, first base, of Victoria Tire; pitcher Jim Marshall, catcher Barry Saddler, and outfielders John Ballock and Bob Bloomfield will represent Morrison Chevs.

Four players, Wayne Schwandt, third base; Butch Rivers, right field; Bruce Simpson, second base, and Robin Barnes, pitcher, are from Dowell's Cartage. Ron Grant, catcher outfielder of Pacifics, rounds out the all-star squad.

Bonar Hannay will manage the club, with Max Bloomfield as coach. League president Allan Collier and Mrs. Collier will also travel with the team.

Susan Butt Enters Semi-Final Round

MONTREAL — Semi-finals were reached Thursday in both the men's and women's singles in the Canadian tennis championships, and among the eight remaining players was Susan Butt of Victoria, 1956 Canadian junior champion.

Miss Butt turned in her best tennis of the tournament in defeating Mrs. Anne Fotheringham of Montreal, 6-4, 6-4, in a quarter-final match.

Mrs. Fotheringham, formerly of Adelaide, Australia, and ex-champion of Queensland state, also lost to Miss Butt in the women's doubles. The Victorian teamed with newly-wed Anne Bagge Vierira to defeat Mrs. Kae Grant and Mrs. Fotheringham.

Miss Butt meets Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto in the singles semis. Mrs. Brown, tournament favorite, advanced to the semi-finals Wednesday.

Singelinde Boeck, freckle-faced immigrant from Austria, provided one of the tournament's bigger upsets by reaching the semi-finals.

Miss Boeck defeated Mrs. Bonita Senn of Toronto, 6-3, 0-6, 6-2, in her quarter-final match. Earlier, she upset Mrs. Sarah Mae Turber of Evansville, Ind., top-seeded foreign entry.

Mrs. Hilda Doleschell, 42-year-old Toronto veteran, became the other semi-finalist with a 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 victory over Mrs. Vierira.

FONTANA LOSES

Ramanthan Krishnan of India, Bob Howe of Australia and Armando Vierira, captain of Brazil's Davis Cup team, joined Canadian-star Bob Bedard in the men's semi-finals yesterday.

Krishnan, who meets Howe in one bracket, eliminated Carlos Fernandez of Brazil, 6-2, 6-4, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4. Howe ousted Don Fontana of Toronto, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3, while Vierira made short work of Dick Sorlien of Philadelphia, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

Canadian Tennis Championships Dominated by U.S. Youngsters

United States players won all five championships decided yesterday in the Canadian junior tennis tournament. Three other championships were held off because of rain and cold weather in Ottawa.

Virginia Hesse of Hamtramck, Mich., won her second successive junior women's championship by defeating Ann Barclay of Vancouver, 6-4, 6-4.

Two other Hamtramck players, Ray Senkowski and Gerald Dubie, will play today for the junior men's title. Pancho Castillo, also of the Hamtramck club, won the boys' singles title.

Carrie Heldman and Ron Siefert of South Bend, Ind., each won two titles. Carrie defeated her 11-year-old sister, Julie, in the juvenile girls' singles, then teamed with Ron to win the mixed doubles. Siefert won the juvenile boys' singles. On Wednesday, the Heldman sisters won the girls' juvenile doubles.

Leg Before Wicket Must Be White

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — A Transvaal official of the South African Cricket Association said yesterday that if the Rhodesian Cricket Union alters its rules to allow inclusion of non-white players it will probably face expulsion from the association.

The official, in an interview with the Johannesburg newspaper Rand Daily Mail, said: "Under South African rules a white cannot play with a non-white. Non-whites cannot of course accompany a Rhodesian side when it visits South Africa.

"Unless Rhodesia plans to leave the association and continue on its own it will be well advised to forget about providing for the inclusion of non-whites in provincial teams," he said.

The interview rose out of the decision of the Mashonaland, Southern Rhodesia, cricket association to accept a resolution making it possible for affiliation of multi-racial or non-white cricket clubs.

Tyee Reports Good From Alberni Canal

Vancouver Island salmon fishing remains so good that it is perhaps unfair to single out any area over another, but entries in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest plus reports received yesterday have turned today's spotlight on Alberni Canal, where tyee salmon are being caught often enough to believe the season is reaching toward its peak.

Ten tyee-sized salmon were weighed in at the Port Boathouse in Port Alberni yesterday morning and 11 the previous day. For the first 12 days of the season, the tyees weighed in total 89.

Down the canal at Nahmint River, it's just as good. Gus Bjeurling of the Nahmint River Lodge reports 70 tyees in the first 10 days, the largest a 35-pounder caught Wednesday morning by Sonny Belie of Franklin River.

Wednesday also saw two of more than 50 pounds taken off Port Alberni. Nick Peters, who is having a big year, used a Tee-spoon to hook a 50-pound, three ounce tyee Wednesday morning. He lasted as "tyee-man for only about 12 hours. In the evening, Bob Hamlyn got the better of a 51¼-pounder, taken on an Alaska plug.

However, entries to the King Fisherman Contest continue to pour in from all parts of the Island and it's good, particularly for coho, from Sooke on the West Coast to Kelsey Bay on the East Coast.

Johnny Brightest Star As Esks Grab Opener

WINNIPEG—Edmonton Eskimos, not much changed from the club which ... the Grey Cup for the third consecutive time, proved to 18,029 fans here Thursday night that their "old guard" is going to be hard to head off in the 1957 WIFU season.

Led by Johnny Bright and Normie Kwong, their devastating twin-fullback combination, the all-round play of Jackie Parker and the crunching defensive work of Frankie Anderson, the Eskimos opened the new football season with a 21-14 win over the Blue Bombers.

HAD TO WORK

Eskimos didn't have it all their own way, but they had what it took when it counted.

It was a rugged game with hard line play throughout but Edmonton was able to contain Winnipeg's vaunted backfield, holding the Bombers to 112 yards along the ground. Only Buddy Lewis could gain consistently against the tough Edmonton defensive line.

Kenny Ploen, all-American from Iowa, and holdover Buddy Leake together completed eight of 15 passes for 138 yards. Ploen showed enough to indicate the Bombers will have adequate forward passing.

Canadian - quarterback Don Getty completed six of 15 passes for 107 yards but the Eskimos rolled up 288 yards the hard way.

Leading the attack were Bright and Kwong with Bright a brilliant plunger. The big colored back scored two touchdowns and handed off to Parker, after making a 17-yard gain, for the third Edmonton major score.

Joe Mobra converted two of the touchdowns and end Bill Walker kicked to the deadline for the other Edmonton point.

Ploen, on a pass from Leake after a hand-off, and Gordie Rowland, on a pass from Ploen, scored the Winnipeg touchdowns. Leake missed one convert. Gerry Vincent kicked to the deadline for one point.

After an exchange of kicks to the deadline had the score at 1-1 in the second quarter, Eskimos marched 73 yards for their first touchdown, Bright plunging the last two yards as the whistle ended the half. Mobra converted on his second chance, given by Winnipeg offside.

Ploen sparked the drive which brought the score to 7-8, then Bright and Kwong collaborated on the 42-yard play which ...

After Rowland's diving catch brought Bombers to 14-15, Bright carried the ball seven successive times, going 46 yards for the clinching touchdown.

Garden Notes

An Old Dispute

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Gardeners have been arguing for years as to whether the spring or the fall is the better time to plant flowering perennials and shrubs.

The main argument put forward by the spring planting school is that autumn-planted perennials were at a disadvantage because they don't have time to form sufficient roots before winter puts a stop to growth, and they claim the plants would hang fire in the spring until the soil warmed up enough to stimulate root action.

They suggest, too, that spring is the time of greatest vigor in a plant, hence it can stand the shock of transplanting that much better.

Personally, I can't quite go for this line of thought. While I plant or move my autumn-flowering plants in the spring—things like Michaelmas daisies and hardy outdoor button chrysanthemums—I have had much better luck with the kinds which flower in spring and summer when they were given them move in the autumn.

One thing we have to consider in our part of the world is the condition of the soil.

We get our heaviest rainfall in the winter and spring, and only too often the ground is sodden with water at the time when the plants are in the best condition for moving—just as the first shoots are poking through the ground.

If you wait for the drying winds of spring to bring the soil into workable condition, you've missed the boat with the plants to be lifted, divided and replanted. They will have made too much growth, and will suffer severely from transplanting shock.

Our falls are usually pretty dry, and the soil in beautiful condition for working.

Besides, the average soil temperature during the last three months of the year is considerably higher than it is in early spring, which helps considerably to get the roots established comfortably in their new home.

Mix a little peat moss into the fill-in soil around the plants and give plenty of water while planting, and I'll guarantee that you'll have fewer losses than from a too-late planting in the spring.

This being the case for fall planting, it isn't a bad idea about now to start a collection of nurserymen's fall catalogues and lists.

Browse through them, decide what you want, then get your order off as early as possible, for this will give the nursery a chance to lift and deliver your plants under ideal conditions.

Queen's Debut Irks BBC

CBC Grabs Royal TV Plum

(From BUP Reports)

OTTAWA — News that Queen Elizabeth's television debut will be made Oct. 13 during her visit to Canada, was followed last night by reports from London that the British Broadcasting Corporation was "somewhat irked" at losing the chance to air the Queen's first television appearance.

It had been previously assumed that the Queen would deliver her first television speech at Christmas over the BBC network.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who yesterday announced the television appearance, said he hoped that the telecast, coupled with additional television coverage of the Queen's opening of Parliament the following day, will afford the Canadian public a sense of participation in the Queen's visit.

All arrangements for the Royal visit were made by the Canadian government.

The Queen and Prince Philip arrive in Canada Saturday, Oct. 12. She speaks to the nation on television Sunday, opens Parliament Monday and flies to the United States on Wednesday.

All her other engagements consist of luncheons and receptions for officials apart from a brief stop with an assembly of school children on her way to the airport on her departure from Canada.

Second Noble Critic Sounds Off

'Court Sunk in Squalor'

LONDON (UP) — A young jazz-playing Irish nobleman joined the ranks of the royal critics yesterday calling for the removal of the "social squalor of the upper classes" from Queen Elizabeth's court.

The ninth Marquess of Londonderry, 20-year-old musician who led his own jazz band at uppercrust Eton, wrote a letter to the magazine "New Statesman" in which he said Lord Altrincham's criticisms of the Queen and her court were "bold and justifiable."

Lord Londonderry declared that "only by plain speaking and ruthless relentlessness can the social squalor of the upper classes be removed from the monarchy and a true democratic monarchy be raised from the social slough it has fallen into."

The nobleman, whose family motto is "The dragon crest is to be feared," said Altrincham was gaining support because "the public are not the obsequious morons they have been suspected of being."

He declared:

"I cannot believe that anyone, however moronic, is going to sit back and have fed him the idea that the monarchy is a sacrosanct head of the family that parades benignly and sedately in front of their loving children whenever they are wanted to, flashing their toothpaste smiles, displaying their latest hairdos and exhibiting their deplorable taste in clothes."

"That concept of a monarchy is ludicrously and nauseatingly incongruous in a modern democracy," Lord Londonderry said, "and Altrincham has been perfectly right and sensible to say so."

The young nobleman, who holds his title through inheritance, said those who had defended the queen against her critics were "flunkeys and lackeys" who had "benefited financially and socially from the Queen and . . . do not want to see their social security threatened."

Accidents Will Happen

Some days you just can't win, driver of this truck in Brussels decides. He's travelled the road safely hundreds of times. This time it caved in right under him.

Religious Magazine Joins Royal Critics

LONDON (Reuters) — A religious journal, the British Weekly, says the Queen has been "sold" to the people not as a monarch but as "a movie queen, as one up on the Americans."

The publication, which has a non-conformist readership, says the Queen also is being sold as a spectacle and an excuse for "national dressing up and other irrelevant gimmicks."

Opening lead: ♡ 5

You can make many more opening two-bids if you adopt a little safeguard that permits partner to pass short of game with a hopeless hand when the two-bidder simply rebids his suit. Thus, if North had held one less spade and one more club or diamond, he could pass the three-spade bid. However, with four trumps and two doubletons, North has enough to carry on to game.

To illustrate how strongly the habit of drawing trumps has been inculcated in most players, a recent bridge book gives very bad advice about the play of a hand almost identical with the one shown here. (The difference is that in the book example, the king and seven of spades were transposed). Having been favored with the opening heart lead, the author suggests that correct play is to lead a diamond toward the jack and, when West ducks, take the spade finesse. Actually, this is the only way to lose the hand.

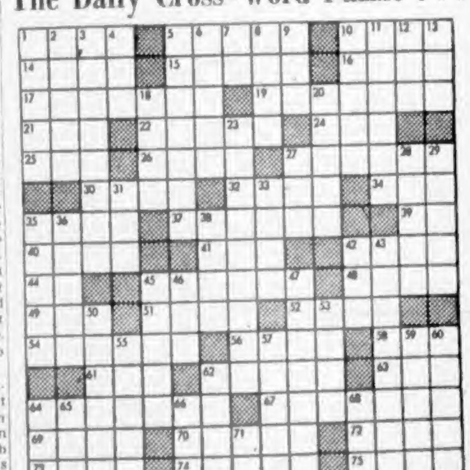

There is no rush about drawing trumps with this hand, but it is urgent that you establish a third-round diamond trick in order to afford dummy a club discard before the opponents have gotten around to knocking out your ace of clubs. If you lose the spade finesse with this hand, it should be difficult for West to see that a club shift is imperative for he knows that you hold the king and queen of diamonds. Therefore, he must defy the adage "never lead away from a king." By establishing a club trick while he still holds the diamond ace, West will stop the game.

You can still preserve your chance of taking the spade finesse if you can postpone it until dummy has discarded a club and ruffed the second club lead. This is probably the right play in a match-point duplicate game where an overtrick is important. In rubber bridge, having no need to guard against losing a spade, you might lay down the ace in order to insure against a freak distribution of the diamonds. As a reward of virtue, you'd make five-odd by dropping the blank king.

They Wouldn't Wait

Family Cheats Bomb

BLACKPOOL, England (CP) — In some future war "exterminate" — A man and his wife feared the loss of people and especially life in a nuclear war more than children's death itself.

So they gassed their three children to death and then themselves together with rope and jumped into the sea.

The bodies of the three children of Andrew and Elsie Marshall were found huddled in their home Aug. 7. A note which was read today at an inquest.

Addressed to her parents, it read:

"In view of all the talk of new war and the extermination of masses of people and especially children we decided we could not allow this to happen to our children.

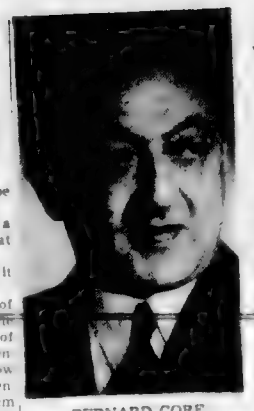

"No harm can reach them now as they lie forever peacefully together in bed."

Wenner-Gren Land:

'It's Rich—All We Dreamed'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Preliminary surveys of the fabulous "Wenner-Gren land" in the northern B.C. wilderness have "confirmed everything we hoped for," managing director Bernard Gore said here yesterday.

He was accompanied on his flight by K. Birgir Strid, chairman of the Wenner-Gren Foundation and Brig. William Murphy and Einar Gunderson directors of the B.C. organization.

They are flying to MacLeod Lake at the southern fringe of the area, 20 miles north of Prince George, then to Akrigg Lake further north. Mr. Gore said the party will look over almost the entire 40,000 square miles of lakes, rivers, mountains and valleys involved in the scheme.

He said the original concept of the massive scheme had not changed in any aspect. "On the contrary, everything we hoped for is being confirmed."

Mr. Gore said surveys for the monorail system will go through many phases. "But the first phase is over and we are very pleased."

Asked if the scheme had met with difficulties, he replied with one word: "Weather."

"Bad weather is just a question of a Mackintosh down here, but to us it's a question of eight or nine months' work. If the good weather we see right now will hold for the rest of summer we can be eight months ahead."

$1,000,000 on geological and geophysical surveys and the results so far look very promising.

Mr. Gore was interviewed before leaving for an aerial reconnaissance of the site of the projected billion-dollar industrial empire.

Rock 'n' Roll Gangs

Church Dances Cause Brawls

HAMILTON, Ont. (CUP) — A suggestion that churches ban rock and roll sessions at parish dances was made yesterday by a magistrate who sentenced five teen-agers for their parts in a brawl outside a church dance last week.

Magistrate Beamer Hopkins said that Hamilton police had been called out 20 times during the last three months to break up fights between rival gangs at church dances.

He sentenced Ronald Leheinsworth, 19, to two months in jail for assaulting an officer. Bela Smith, 18, described as the ring leader, was remanded on $100 bail for one week for causing a disturbance.

Two other teen-agers, James Riley and Albert Backer, were placed on probation for one year and Jack Legatt was fined $25 and costs.

Many of the boating enthusiasts will come from upstate points. Vancouver, Seattle, Everett and Bellingham, but two groups will attend from the Victoria Outboard Club.

Smiles Thank Donors

Some of the hospital patients were able only to smile their thanks while the others spoke freely their gratitude to generous Victorians for bringing floral beauty into their wards.

They were recipients in Royal Jubilee [illegible] and Veterans' Hospitals of bright and fragrant flowers in the Colonist's Share the Flowers plan.

The delight of the patients in receiving the flowers was matched by that of the many who donated them.

Col. A. D. Murdoch, 2967 Eastdowne Road, who only moved here in June, was a volunteer driver. He said that at the majority of the houses where he called to pick up flowers, "they were elderly ladies, some in their 70s and 80s, and it was touching to see them out cutting flowers, delighted to be able to do something."

TO THE ELECTORS OF SAANICH MUNICIPALITY

On Saturday, August 17, 1957, you will be asked to vote on By-law No. 1323, which is a by-law to authorize the Council to apply $95,000.00 of the money received from the Sale of Tax Sale Lands towards the cost of altering, renovating and adding to the present Municipal Hall.

In order that you will be fully informed on this important question, the following is submitted by the Council:

(1) All the members of the Council are agreed that additional office space is urgently required.

(2) After studying the matter, and considering the question of temporary quarters, the majority of the Council feels the present proposal to build a two-storey concrete addition and alter and renovate the present building is the most practical means to provide the necessary space. The addition is so designed that a third storey may be added later if necessary.

(3) This building is a permanent structure but the partitions are removable. This will facilitate the use of the building for other purposes in the event that, in the future, it is no longer required for a Municipal Hall.

(4) The estimated cost of the work is $225,000.00 and the Council has the money on hand, so that it will not be necessary to borrow, or to increase your taxes in order to undertake this work.

(5) The By-law to use the $95,000.00 has received the approval of the Minister of Municipal Affairs, subject to it receiving the assent of the owner-electors of the Municipality.

The Council urges all property owners to consider these points and to vote on the question on Saturday, August 17, 1957, in the manner they see fit.

MacMillan and Bloedel have not yet made a concrete decision but Mr. Barsby felt that there would be no retrograde step from last year. Access is assured in the Northwest Bay claim and is pretty well certain at Nanaimo River.

No access has been granted on MacMillan & Bloedel claims at Shawnigan, Chemainus, and Port Alberni, however.

Saanich Banks Future on Poll

'Yes' or 'No' Decides Vital Policy Issues

By DAVID BROWN

When Saanich ratepayers go to the polls tomorrow they will be deciding not only whether a permanent hall should be erected, but, more important, they will be charting a definite future course in municipal policy.

If the hall referendum gains the necessary 60 per cent vote for passage, a final barrier will be placed in the way of mutually solving the pressing space problems of Victoria and Saanich with a single hall erected by and for both.

In allowing the municipality to build its own hall, the voters' decision will be interpreted by a council majority as a blanket denial of even the investigation of amalgamation at least during the present council's term.

Councillors will claim that there is no longer a rational argument for even studying amalgamation and will embark on a "course of pride" in building up Saanich as the Greater Victoria municipality with the "brightest future of all."

Too few ratepayers in Saanich realize that they will be called upon for a decision Saturday that runs much broader and deeper in ramifications than the question that will appear on the referendum ballot.

What the voter must consider is:

Should Saanich build a hall addition costing an estimated $225,000 before it has received conclusive evidence that nothing could be gained from either a joint hall with the city or amalgamation?

Council Says: YES

Previous reports show that amalgamation is impractical and not beneficial for Saanich; there is no need for further investigation.

Space is an immediate requirement; the city has indicated it could not consider a new hall for five years, thus ruling out an early solution by a joint municipal hall.

Temporary structures prove just as costly as permanent buildings, with fixtures and foundation, and they have a bad reputation of becoming permanent in their own right.

A "permanent" hall would be built inwardly flexible, with movable and removable partitions, if in the future it is no longer required for municipal purposes, the building could be used for something else such as technical school, home for aged, health centre.

Outward flexibility would allow a third storey in the future, a duplicate of the addition could be built on the site of the present hall to make a single, all-new structure.

Thorough planning went into the proposed hall with many hours of study by the committee whether the reeve was present at meetings or not.

Complete contract plans were obtained from the architects before the referendum so that council could show the people "as firm a price as humanly possible" on the cost of the proposed hall.

Council would have been rebuked for offering only a preliminary estimate if the actual amount contracted grossly exceeded the original estimate.

A satisfactory agreement with the district 63 school board over acquisition of sufficient land for parking and sanitary purposes has been "practically consummated."

The hall addition and renovation will cost the ratepayer absolutely no increase in taxation.

Ratepayers will be asked to approve only the transfer of $95,000 from reverted tax land sales to the project. These particular funds can be used only on a capital expenditure with the approval of the municipal affairs minister or municipal ratepayers.

Remainder of the cost will be paid for out of revenue surplus of which more than $200,000 will be left in the till as a cushion for municipal requirements.

SUMMING UP: Desperate space problem in Royal Oak hall demands an immediate remedy. A permanent hall in a permanent and rapidly growing municipality.

Reeve Says: NO

Amalgamation has never undergone a detailed investigation, there has been only one report, designed only as a framework to guide municipalities on a thorough study of the question.

Joint hall discussions were abruptly abandoned by Saanich without finding out whether it would be desirable, the city indicates it would "start the machinery immediately" if Saanich showed signs of co-operating on a joint hall venture.

There has been no study of alternatives to a permanent hall.

Temporary steel structure could be purchased and erected at "less than half the cost of a concrete building, would be attractive and comfortable and serve space requirements until questions of a joint hall or amalgamation are thrashed out; temporary hall could be moved eventually to municipal yards where space is also required.

Despite inward "flexibility" of permanent hall all future uses for the concrete building is "pure conjecture."

Planning for the proposed building was conducted in a "completely unbusinesslike manner." The reeve was never notified of hall committee meetings.

There was no consultation with a number of architects. One firm was appointed, ordered to draw up sketch plans and submit a report. Sketch plans were never tabled at council for perusal and recommendations, report has not been received to date.

Complete and detailed working drawings were drawn up before the referendum was approved, thus committing ratepayers to the "better part of $10,000 in architects' fees."

Council's efforts to get a "firm" price to submit to electors were fruitless because contractors did not wish to tender on a project that might be turned down at the polls.

Negotiations for land from the school board are still not completed and with no evidence they will be completed by the time of the referendum. Even if council obtains its 2¼ acre site, "is this sufficient for a hall in the long term?"

Although money for the hall comes from surplus and tax land sales, "it was all obtained from the ratepayers at one time; therefore there is no saving, even if taxes aren't increased for the present.

Summing Up: Does Saanich want a $225,000 "concrete monument" erected before all avenues of providing additional office space are explored.

Advice to Labor:

Back Homes For Seniors

A Victoria Labor Council committee will recommend that the [illegible] Housing Society project in Victoria council act as a sponsor of the [illegible] president, reported last Victoria Senior Citizens' Hous[illegible] night.

MRS. MAY CAMPBELL
. . . strengthen their plea.

The VLC committee, consisting of Jack McKenzie, IWA delegate, Bruce Loudon, machinists' representative and A. W. Toone, council secretary, met this week with Mrs. Campbell and other society officials.

The committee will report to the executive of the labor body which meets Wednesday, and has been empowered to act.

Mrs. Campbell said that having the labor council as a sponsor will strengthen the society when it appeals to the provincial government for a grant of one-third of the cost of the $75,000 project.

The society was also told it could depend on help from affiliates to the council in its per-capita campaign planned for next year to raise $10,000 towards the cost of the low-rental housing project, Mrs. Campbell stated.

Fabulous Luck Ends For Famous Sisters

By MARY PADDOCK

[illegible] for the other day over re ports that four men broke the back to the tune of $971,000 at a Cannes gambling casino?

Women did it first and women did it better. These were the glittering if ill-star red, Dolly sisters, who were the main winners of a $1,250,000 run, which temporarily closed down the Cannes Casino in the roaring 20s.

There is a storybook quality about the lives of the twin girls born Rozsika and Yancsi in Budapest on Oct. 25, 1892. They came to the United States as children, found their names Americanized to Rosie and Jenny and soon saw them in the bright lights of three-a-day vaudeville.

IN ZIEGFELD FOLLIES

Professionally, [illegible] chic brunettes were dancers, and they must have been good ones, for they made their New York debut as a team on the stage of the old Keith Union Square Theatre in 1909 and just two years later were "glorified" by the greatest showman of them all, Florenz Ziegfeld, who featured them in his 1911 "Follies."

From that carefree day through the drab noon of the depression, the girls were seldom out of the headlines a decade-long career in which other lovelies flourished and faded.

They were adopted by the international set as symbols of gambling fortune. At the 1925 Grand Prix horse race in Paris, they won bets on every single race. Jenny reportedly won as much as $500,000 playing baccarat at Le Touquet, France.

They couldn't lose for winning, the reports went, and crowds dogged them. And perhaps their greatest hour came in February, 1928.

MARRIED A CANADIAN

Rosie had been secretly married the previous year to Montoner Davis, Jr., son of Sir Mortimer Davis, "the Canadian Rockefeller," who left an estimated $150,000,000 when he died.

She had been seriously ill and was unable at first to join her sister at the big tables of the Cannes Casino. Jenny played alone in what was described as a quiet manner until shortly after New Year when she broke the silence with the following to the proprietors— [illegible] at she was afraid of the [illegible] gave [illegible]

She promptly converted 3,000,000 of these francs into what a New York Times correspondent called the finest set of earrings, bracelets and rings in diamonds and emeralds Cannes has ever seen.

Around this time Rosie [illegible] tered up from her sick bed joined her sister and started the real trouble. She was playing under doctor's orders and could only operate a limited number of hours a day.

WOMEN'S INTUITION

Jenny departed with self-estimated winnings of 15,000,000 francs. Rosie and her husband stayed on. Playing only in the late afternoon, she saddened Nicholas Zographos, head of the Greek syndicate which had run the Casino since 1920, by her diabolical, or women's intuition of when to gamble and when not to.

News of the syndicate losses brought crowds to watch the games, including King Christian of Denmark and Prince Carol of Rumania. Rosie beat the house 10 times in a row over a three-hour period. With losses of 4,000,000 francs, the house shut down.

Play resumed after supper however, and the unhappy Zographos found Rosie and her moneyed husband waiting. The [illegible] fabled luck continued and when at 2 a.m. Rosie quit she and [illegible] the next day - she announced she was 5,500,000 francs to the good.

There is however an axiom for a coarser form of gambling which seems to cover any game of chance. "All horse players die broke." And some time later Jenny Dolly was reported to have lost $800,000 over a two-month period at Monte Carlo and to be playing 100,000 francs a throw in an effort to recoup.

NO SURE SYSTEM

And on Aug. 25, 1930, Jenny made an announcement for her sister and herself in Paris. They were through gambling, she said. And she had "no tip on breaking the bank. The only way to prevent the bank from breaking you is to break the habit of going to the tables."

[illegible] gambling. "Lucky in cards un[illegible] lucky in love." Rosie's marriage ended in a 1932 [illegible] Jenny was seriously injured in an automobile accident near Bordeaux. In 1933 underwent 6 plastic surgery operations on her face. She was [illegible] for these when $1,000,000 in her jewels were sold for $280,825 at a public auction and she "jumped for joy." In 1941 committed suicide in Holly wood, July 1, 1941.

Home Grown Mink For Paris Fashion

PARIS (WNS)—That mean, but precious little animal, the mink, is well up in the thoughts of France's hard-pressed economic experts these days.

As part of the financially embarrassed French government's scheme to cut imports and produce at home more of the raw materials required by French industry, officials are encouraging Frenchmen to raise minks.

Mink is highly important to France's fashion industry. And need it be pointed out just how important the fashion industry is to France's pocketbook?

The government's goal is self-sufficiency in furskins by 1961. Paris' couturiers and furriers must import about 80 per cent of their skins at present. However, there are already about 1,200 professional mink "farmers" in France and their number is growing.

With the increased Paris fashion emphasis on mink as trim for coats and dresses and even as a lining for "simple" cloth coats, the financial problem posed by the furry weasel has grown fairly acute. About $30,000,000 in valuable foreign exchange was spent to import skins last year.

Whatever it does for the economy of the Orient, as a whose the "let's grow mink at home" campaign should do quite a bit for French women. At the moment, a mink coat [illegible] are costs approximately twice as much as in America.

What's Cooking!

Serve Salmon Mousse to Weekend Guests

By Frances Thompson

Generally speaking people are extraordinarily KIND don't you think so? Obviously I was in a spot the other day when some "mate mate" [illegible] appealed to us for help. What happened? The phone never stopped ringing. Either there are an awful lot of wave lengths in an awful [illegible] is an awful [illegible] Maybe the two go together.

Anyway out of the situation able contributed recipes. One pal who phoned it in, though speaking with a delightful English accent, admitted she came of Russian stock.

With the interest of the United Nations at heart I laughingly repeated it was not a recipe for Vodka as were searching for just for home made Canadian wine. Last we get started Mrs. W. told me I should have heard the young man down to the [illegible] cal name of the grape. Well I'll know better next time. In the meantime here's what Mrs. J. P. suggests . . .

GRAPE WINE

Six pounds half ripe grapes, 6 pounds sugar, 1½ gallons water, allowed to boil and then cooled. Strip grapes from stalks, wet hands in the bucket and with back of spoon. Be careful not to crush the seeds. Put broken grapes into tub or large pail and pour the water when cold over them. Stir vigorously and squeeze to press out the juice.

Cover with a large clean cloth and leave for a week. Strain through 2 thicknesses of muslin (cheese cloth). Add sugar to liquid and stir until dissolved. Cover again and leave to ferment for 6 days. Skim carefully, strain wine and pour into cask or any large container. Cork lightly until fermentation has ceased. Bottle after four months. Cork very firmly and keep for 12 months before opening.

I'd love to run an opposition recipe sent in by a famous pastor but maybe it wouldn't be fair to our many readers who are not interested in this subject. Meantime my kettle is [illegible] boiling for a cup of tea, excuse me.

* * *

Changing the subject completely, here's an idea for any left-over fish you may or may not have.

Introducing a new song singer Celeste Holm says, "Basically a song is as flexible as cement." Miss Holm admits it might not be true, but says it is a great way to present the song.

SALMON MOUSSE

One tablespoon (1 envelope) gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water, 2 teaspoons flour, 2 [illegible] dry mustard, salt and pepper, 2 eggs, ¼ cup vinegar, 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, about 1½ cups flaked cooked salmon or other left over fish, ½ cup cream whipped. Soften gelatin in the cold water for few minutes. Mix flour, sugar and seasonings in top part of double boiler. Add eggs and mix until smooth.

Add milk slowly and then the vinegar very slowly. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Add butter. Add softened gelatin, stirring until completely dissolved. Then add cooked left over fish. Chill, stirring occasionally. When it begins to thicken fold in the whipped cream. Turn into a mold and chill until firm. Unmold on to [illegible] choice of salad greens and serve with cucumber sauce if you like. Incidentally this following recipe for sauce can be used for all kinds of things as indicated by common sense.

CUCUMBER SAUCE

(makes about 1½ cups)

One teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon [illegible] chopped onion, 1 cup evaporated milk, 1 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons parsley and cucumber. Primarily meant to be a fish sauce it seems to go just as well with cold meats.

We've had this before but it's worth repeating. Mrs. J. R. of Duncan reminds us: "To prevent flies remember to rinse out all cans before throwing them into the garbage."

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

BEAUTY AT YOUR FINGERTIPS. If a woman never had anything more strenuous to do than arrange flowers she'd have flowerlike hands. Or so she thinks.

But the truth of the matter is quite [illegible]. It's good care that achieves good hands and whether or not they take a beating from chores. If you just give your hands this much care, you will never have cause to bemoan their condition.

1 Scrub with sudsy brush at least twice daily and slather on hand lotion. 2 Use lotion after every washing when possible. 3 Before grimy or wet work, apply a cream preparation or work gloves. 4 For acute roughness, wear cosmetic gloves to bed. 5 Manicure weekly, being sure to include an oil soak for hands and a pumice massage for stained spots.

YOUR GROOMING—A TO Z

Put aside your grooming doubts and worries! Send today for Your Grooming A to Z, a booklet that covers every step in achieving smooth looks. It tells how to manicure and pedicure, use deodorants and depilatories, battle for beauty [illegible] feet, hands, teeth and eyes, polish [illegible] and hair care for [illegible] Apply perfume, overcome personal [illegible]. To obtain your copy, write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25c in coin.

In San Juan, Puerto Rico woman mayor Dona Felisa Rincon de Gautier says she cleaned up her corrupt town "like a woman cleans a dirty house." Women have a great advantage in government, she affirms, because they "pick up" all the time until the house or govern[illegible] is clean.

Flu Vaccine Priorities

Who Will Be Saved?

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada can't turn out enough Asiatic flu vaccine to protect the general public from the disease's anticipated impact between October and January, a survey showed yesterday.

Dr. Roger Foley of Quebec's health department said a federal-provincial health conference probably will be held early next month to work out priorities.

Federal officials said the matter of priorities is up to the individual provinces.

Canada has had no flu cases listed officially yet, although Newfoundland has some suspects. Of the 4,000 cases reported in the United States, officials here said, only two have died.

MUSCAT — The British-backed Sultan of Muscat and Oman declared in a victory statement yesterday that the tribal revolt against his rule had ended.

Loses Eye

Claude L. Harrison, former mayor of Victoria, had his right eye removed yesterday following an accident last Friday when a sharp branch pierced his eye.

Saanich Notified

Stolen Plane Found in U.S.

Two weeks after its disappearance from a Central Saanich landing strip, a small privately-owned plane has been located in Washington state.

The aircraft, a four-seater vermilion and white Stinson, was stolen July 29 or 30.

Yesterday Police Chief F. E. Browning of Central Saanich said he had been informed that a plane of this description was at a small field at Washtucna, Wash., about 100 miles south and west of Spokane.

Bill Snyder, owner of the U.S. field, also told Claude Butler, owner of the Central Saanich strip, that the plane had been landed at his field July 30. It ground-looped on landing, damaging undercarriage, wing-tip and propellor.

The pilot told Mr. Snyder he would see about repairs, and left the field. He did not return.

It is believed he is the same man held since Aug. 6 by the sheriff's office of Kingman, Ariz., on suspicion of plane theft. Police said it appeared the man stole another plane in Washington, and still another in a different state, before reaching Kingman.

Owner of the plane stolen here is Rudy Kwiram, 1032 Oliphant, who left Victoria by car yesterday for Washtucna. He hopes to repair his plane and fly it back home.

Polio Light In B.C.

British Columbia is virtually polio-free this year.

So far only 19 cases have been reported this year as against 46 at this time a year ago—and 1956 was considered a very low incidence year.

No deaths have occurred this year as against one a year ago while only three of the 19 cases were of the dread bulbar or paralytic type.

Fresh Buying Halts Slump At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Fresh buying appeared in the final 30 minutes of trading Thursday to lift the stock market from a drastic decline.

The decline reached its lowest level at 2 p.m. when first signs of a rally appeared and a few mines moved up.

By 3 p.m. the recovery was in full swing and most of the losses in all sections were reduced. Industrials were off 4½ points at the close, a little better than the six-point loss they had earlier. Golds and base metals each had a point sliced from their index losses while western oils had a minor improvement on index.

The volume of 4,546,000 shares was the heaviest since June 13. Wednesday's total was 3,504,000 shares.

Nearly a dozen industrial stocks lost more than two points while several others were off at least a point. Among the heavier losers were Ford A, Interprovincial Pipe Line, Canadian Bank of Commerce and International Utilities. Goodyear Tire gained ¾ points at 179¾ on 35 shares.

Senior base metals and western oils had losses ranging to two points. Lower-priced issues moved down in a 25-cent range with a few losing as much as 60 cents. Gains were few and generally less than 15 cents.

Pipelines Sagging

MONTREAL (CP) — Trans-Mountain slipped 3 points to 91 and Inter-Provincial Pipe Lines was off 3½ at 46.

In utilities, B.C. Power fell 2½ to 43½ while Calgary Power at 70⅛ slipped a point.

Mines and oils were down. Hollinger slipped 2¼ to 27¼ and Pacific Petroleum eased 1⅝ to 26⅝ while Calgary-Edmonton at 28¾ and Home Oil A at 16 each lost a point. Northspan was down 70 cents at 5.20 and Quebec Lithium was off 75 cents at 5.75 while Opemiska dropped 1.00 to 8.50.

Campbell Chib at 8.15, Permo at 3.00 and Provo at 3.40 each lost 25 cents while Sherritt at 500, Canadian Atlantic at 6.90 and Eastern Mining at 1.80 each slipped 15 cents.

Averages Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market had to settle for little more than an even break Thursday. At the close, more stocks were lower than were higher, while the averages were a little higher.

The market shifted currents frequently in moderately active trading in the wake of Wednesday's sharp decline.

Volume of 2,040,000 equalled the total Wednesday when the average declined $2.20.

Cowichan Advances

VANCOUVER — Oil stocks recovered from their lows late in the session. Pacific Petroleums was $27 after $25, and smaller rallies were made by United Oil and Peace River Petroleum. Fort St. John was 5.50 after 5.75.

Cowichan Copper added 10 cents at 1.30, and Bralorne firmed to 4.30. Otherwise mines tended lower, Bethlehem dropping to 1.30.

Capital Estates was up 5 cents at $5 among industrials but MacMillan slipped to $27½ and Westminster B. to $24. B.C. Power was out of favor at $44.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Flax showed the best activity in trade. International interests and commission houses did the buying while selling came in the form of hedges and U.S. houses. Flax prices were somewhat irregular.

Oats and barley trading was mostly along domestic lines with a few shipping orders.

Rye trade disclosed some buying from U.S. interests. Prices were irregular.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat overnight included the United Kingdom 950,000 bushels and Germany 150,000 bushels.

CHICAGO (AP)—Most grain futures couldn't get moving along the upward path on the Board of Trade but wheat held fairly steady.

Some support came into the wheat pit on trade belief that exports will pick up. Under an agreement signed yesterday Poland is to buy around 16,000,000 bushels of U.S. wheat. Traders believe at least part of this will be red winter wheat, of which Chicago is the principal outlet.

Oats lost ground. Soybeans dipped more than a cent.

Record High

Dollar Soars Upward

By HARRY YOUNG
(Colonist Business Editor)

Although stock prices have been plummeting all week, to suggest that a recession is somewhere in sight, money continues to talk as if the main threat was still unbridled inflation.

Tightening of money continues at an even faster pace than it did in earlier months of the year. In Ottawa yesterday the treasury had to pay a record high average yield of 4.03 per cent for its weekly short term borrowings.

This was .11 per cent higher than a week ago, and the first time the rate has topped the 4 per cent mark.

As the Bank of Canada rediscount rate for the coming week is based on .25 per cent more than the average treasury bill yield, the bank rate is also at a record of 4.28 per cent.

The increase is in direct line with the recent half cent step-up in prime commercial interest rates by the leading U.S. lending institutions.

The other highly significant move yesterday was the increase in the premium on the Canadian dollar at New York.

At the close the Canadian dollar was worth $1.05 23-32 — higher than it has ever been before. It topped the 5 3-8th premium of November 1933 just before the U.S. abandoned the gold standard.

The increase in the Canadian dollar premium can mean only one thing. New capital is continuing to flow into the country, despite fears expressed that the new Conservative government might reverse the trend.

Much of the new money is probably coming from Britain and other European countries, who probably prefer the Canadian atmosphere of Diefenbaker more than they did that of St. Laurent.

Money from Europe is usually paid in U.S. dollars, so that the effect on the Canadian dollar is precisely the same as if it emanated from the U.S.

What this all means to the Canadian economy can only be estimated broadly. For the exporter the immediate future is grim, but the high dollar should bring down costs of imported goods, and the inflow of capital indicates that the world assessment of Canada over a long term has never been higher.

ASKED TO PART

Shareholders of B.C. Cement Company and Evans, Coleman & Gilley Brothers have been asked by A. E. Ames & Company if they would be willing to sell one-third of their shares so that part of the new capital of the merged firm of Ocean Cement & Supplies may be made to the public.

So far no purchase or offering price has yet been indicated.

"It will depend upon what dividend rate the new company intends to pay," said a representative of the underwriting firm.

PROFITS INCREASED

Net profit of Alberta Distillers for the fiscal year ending May 31, was $427,224 (12 cents a share), compared with $244,050 (7 cents a share) in the previous year.

Sales rose to $2,593,491 from $1,805,963.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (Reuters) — The stock market continued unsettled with Wednesday's sharp fall on Wall Street a further adverse factor.

There was reluctance to extend commitments and conditions generally were quiet. Gilt-edged securities were sensitive and showed further fractional declines although there was some recovery from lower levels.
